

Séminaire

DE RECHERCHE

Understanding residential energy consumption is pivotal in addressing global energy conservation and climate change challenges. Space heating accounts for 63% of the total final energy consumption in the French residential sector, making occupant behaviour crucial for achieving energy conservation goals. Despite extensive studies on household energy behaviour, there is a significant theoretical gap in accurately assessing and categorizing residents' space heating practices. This research examines the space heating behaviour of French households using (...)

Tayyar HASANOV
Dorothee CHARLIER

USMB - IREGE

Behavioral Patterns and Energy Consumption in French Residential Buildings

03 octobre 2024

12h15 - Salle 103 - IAE SMB Annecy

Zoom / Calendrier